Water, Water Everywhere!!

But Which One Is to Drink, Is A Big Question???

Folks!! Water covers more than two-thirds of the earth's surface, about 70% of the earth's surface is covered with water, and 97% of the water on the earth is salt water. Salt water is filled with salt and other minerals, but humans cannot drink this water. 2% of the water on earth is glacier ice existing at the North and South Poles. This ice is fresh water and could be melted; however, it is too far away from where people live to be usable.

Less than 1% of all the water on earth is fresh water that we can actually use. We use this small amount of water for drinking, transportation, heating and cooling, industry, and many other purposes. And to make water drinkable since beginning civilisations have invented techniques and developed tools to do water treatment to make water drinkable. "Water treatment" is the process of cleaning water. In nature, water is not always clean enough for people to drink. Treatment makes the water safe for people to drink. Because water is a good solvent, it picks up all sorts of natural pollutants. Treatments like boiling, water Chlorination, Distillation, Iodine Addition, Solar Filtration, Clay Vessel Filtration, Desalination, UV filtration, RO filtration and Alkaline Ionizer are few.

"Thousands have lived without love, hundreds without food but none without water."

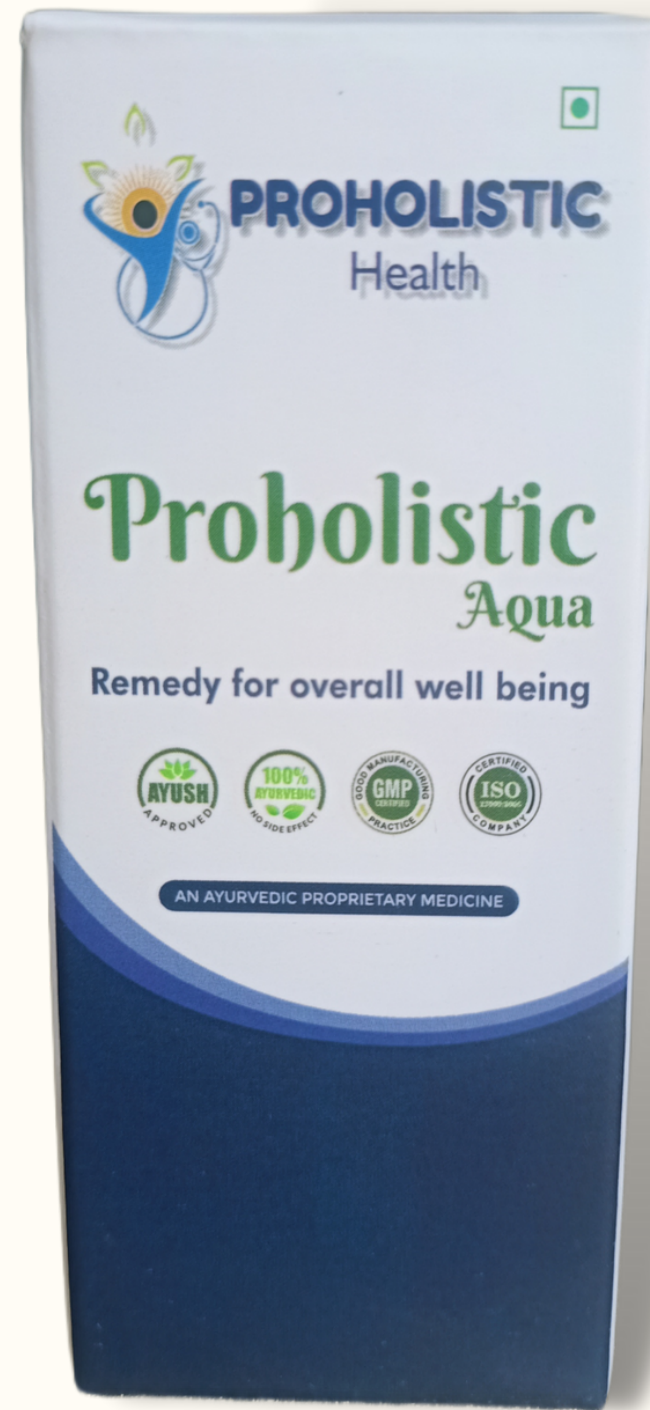

Why do we need water?

Water helps in flushing out toxins from the body, maintain the core temperature, transport minerals to different organs and assist in digesting the food we consume. Additionally, there are few more vital roles of water which are as follow:

- Regulates Body Temperature.
- Moistens Tissues In The Eyes, Nose And Mouth.
- Protects Body Organs and Tissues.
- Carries Nutrients and Oxygen to Cells.
- Lubricates Joints.
- Lessens Burden On The Kidneys And Liver By Flushing Out Waste Products And Many More...
